Ports of Call

Messina: Is the pleasant town located with the best harbour on the Strait of Messina between the Tyrrhenian and Ionian Seas, in northeast Sicily on the lower slopes of the Peloritani Mountains. A port city opposite the Italian mainland, Messina has industries producing silks, muslins, linens, and chemicals.

Civitavecchia: Rome means history. There are layers of the stuff - Etruscan tombs, Republican meeting rooms, imperial temples, early Christian churches, medieval bell towers, Renaissance palaces and baroque basilicas. In this city a phenomenal concentration of history, legend and monuments coexists with an equally phenomenal concentration of people busily going about their everyday life.

Genoa: Cradled between land and sea, living and working in the port, breathing its past in her palaces, passionately fond of the terraced hills that embrace the city, Genoa has many different faces. A modern metropolis and a severe custodian of artistic heritage, an industrious marketplace that also has century-old parks to relax in.

Marseille: The second city of France and the capital of the Provence-Costa Azzurra region. Marseille lies on the southeastern coast of France. Although Marseille is the economic and industrial capital of France, it manages to remain true to its own traditions and culture, reflected in the Marsillian way of life and its numerous museums, theatres and opera houses.

Barcelona: Is the capital of the Catalonia region. It lies along the Mediterranean coast between the mouths of the rivers Besós and Llobregat. In the Northwest a set of hills run parallel to the coast. In the Southwest the old town lies along the port and is divided by the famous "La Rambla". Today Barcelona is Spain's second biggest city as far as population is concerned and it is the main industrial centre of the country.

Tunis: It consists of three cities: the modern Capital City of the Tunisian Republic, with its wide streets, skyscrapers and busy sidewalk cafes; the Arabic Medina (Old Town) from the Middle Ages, an exciting labyrinth laden with secrets, narrow alleyways, small shops, huge mosques, palaces and finally Carthage, the ancient Phoenician - Roman city.

Price Includes: 8 day cruise on full board basis, port charges, fuel, surcharge and service charge.
